Celebration to honour Mooseheads is on Tuesday at noon

RUTH DAVENPORT

HRM residents have one chance to get together with the Halifax Mooseheads to celebrate the team's dramatic run to its first Canadian Hockey League title.

The city is holding a short procession and rally at noon Tuesday for the first-ever "Mooseheads Day," in honour of the Herd's victories in the President's Cup and Memorial Cup finals.

"It's not every day a city gets to push out its chest and say, 'We're No. 1,'" said Mayor Mike Savage Monday. "We have the best junior team in the CHL and that's worth coming out to celebrate."

The Mooseheads will carry the Memorial Cup from the Metro Centre down Carmichael Street to the Grand Parade at noon. Carmichael Street and Argyle between Duke and Prince will be closed from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We hope maybe some employers will be a little flexible with some of their employees so they can go home and get their kids from school and bring them down," said Savage.

The event has garnered some criticism on Facebook and Twitter for not taking place at night or on a weekend, but Savage said the city had to work with the team's schedule.

"Some of the players ... are already going to be late getting to the (NHL draft) combine," he said. "Everybody has training regimes and places they have to go to, so this has to be done very quickly."

Speechless.

Mooseheads return victorious from Saskatoon, say there are no words to describe the team's first CHL win

ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

The Halifax Mooseheads are back on home turf.

The 2013 Memorial Cup champions touched down at Halifax Stanfield International Airport around 5:15 p.m. Monday, less than 24 hours after successfully battling the determined Portland Winterhawks for the first CHL title in franchise history.

Co-captain Trey Lewis appeared in the doorway of the plane looking just as happy as a kid on Christmas morning — and probably running on a lot less sleep.

"It was surreal, best night of my life," he said, cradling the hefty cup in his arms. "I got a little bit of sleep, but sleep's overrated at this point."

Memorial Cup MVP and the subject of NHL draft speculation Nathan MacKinnon also said the reality of the team's red-hot performance and grueling 6-4 final victory hadn't quite sunk in.

"It's amazing," he said. "We're Memorial Cup champions, one of the hardest trophies to win. Definitely an indescribable feeling."

MacKinnon said he was looking forward to Tuesday's public celebration, which includes a short parade down Carmichael Street.

"I've never been in a parade before, so I'm looking forward to my first time," he said. "I'm sure we'll get pretty good support, so it should be fun."

Cole Harbour native Stephen MacAulay admitted Sunday's game — during which Portland closed to within one goal not once but twice — was as nerve-racking for the Herd as it was for the fans watching across the country.

"There were some tense moments at times, maybe a little closer than we would have liked," he said. "They played a heck of a game and we were just happy to hold on to get the win."

MacAulay, in his last season as a junior player, said it was pretty special to wrap up his tenure with a championship in his hometown.

"It's definitely pretty well the perfect way to go out," he said.

Owner Bobby Smith said Sunday's win was a "pretty special moment.

"I'm extremely proud of this team," he said. "I'm beaming with pride and that's the only way to describe it."

'Best fans in the league' make noise for their boys

It might be an exaggeration to say Moose Mania rivalled Beatlemania at the team's homecoming Monday — but it might not.

A small but enthusiastic horde of Mooseheads fans waited in the rain for hours to see the Memorial Cup champions return home, huddling under soggy blankets and umbrellas until the team's arrival.

"We wanted to see the cup and the Mooseheads, cause they're awesome!" said a breathless Bobbie Day Wilson.

Chants of "Go Moose go!" morphed into "We're No. 1!" as the plane rolled to a stop — and as Trey Lewis appeared with the trophy, the chants morphed into a din of screams, whistles and cowbells that drowned out any other sound on the tarmac.

"They deserve it. They worked hard all year, they deserve it!" hollered Kim Davidson, waving a Mooseheads flag in the crowd.

The players, in turn, had plenty of love for the fans — though they expressed it at a lower volume.

"We knew we had the best fans in the league, but

... it's a pretty crappy day and to see the support, it's very overwhelming and we appreciate it," said Stephen MacAulay.

Fan devotion to the team is so strong, it had at least one young man sort of hoping that pro careers could wait, at least another year, for Jonathan Drouin and Nathan MacKinnon.

"I want them to stay in Halifax," said a grinning Kyle Scanlon.

Bear and moose hit the town; have wild time

Spring means more wildlife looking for food in N.S., exploring woods and trails

HALEY RYAN

Two Nova Scotia towns woke up to reports of a bear on a tear and moose on the loose Monday morning.

A black bear was spotted in New Glasgow, while in Amherst a gangly young moose wandered into town.

"This is the time of year when people and wildlife sort of come together," said Hope Swinimer, founder of the Hope for Wildlife Society.

"They're probably as surprised as we are once they

On guard

"Nature is out there and we need to enjoy it but we also need to be smart about it."

Hope Swinimer, founder of the Hope for Wildlife Society arrive: 'Oh, I guess I made a wrong turn along the way,' she said.

Curious black bears are usually drawn to towns because of tempting food smells drifting from garbage cans, Swinimer said, which is why it's important to keep green bins and bags locked away.

Peter MacDonald, large-mammal biologist with the Department of Natural Resources, said moose change their eating patterns during the spring, which may lead to them looking for new sources of food close to a town.

Spring also means moose moms are having babies and it's time for older calves to leave the nest, MacDonald said.

"What they'll do is chase that yearling out. They don't want them around anymore," said MacDonald.

Black bears do a very similar thing when mating season starts in May, MacDonald said, so most of the bears you see exploring neighbourhoods are year-old males looking for food.

"Quite often with bears, really they're just passing through," MacDonald said, adding people should only be concerned if they keep hanging around and manage to find open garbage.

"If there's no food there, the bears are going to move on," he said.

Swinimer said as long as animals aren't feeling cornered or threatened, they're not likely to strike out. If you stumble across a bear, just back away slowly while trying to make yourself bigger and make lots of noise, she added.

"If you're going out in the woods take a buddy, take your dog ... take something that's going to protect you," Swinimer said.

A moose ran through downtown Amherst on Monday morning.

Two wings up: Ducks saved in fowl weather

A Halifax RCMP officer has helped a fine feathered family in need by rescuing six ducklings from a storm drain.

At about 9 p.m. on Friday, police say several motorists pulled over on the side of the road or swerved to avoid a mother duck running "frantically" across Highway 7 by the Superstore in Porters Lake.

After getting a call from a citizen worried about both ducks and the traffic issue, a nearby officer responded

The officer managed to pry the drain open with a

"I would imagine it was a scary situation to be trapped," said RCMP spokesperson Cpl. Scott MacRae about the duckling's fall. "Three feet is quite a drop for them."

MacRae said the duck family soon continued on their rainy evening journey, no worse for the wear.

Hearings to decide fate of N.S. energy

Maritime Link. Premier Darrell Dexter behind proposal, opposition parties want wider review

Boris Mirtchev will watch warily as regulatory hearings begin Tuesday on a proposed undersea hydro cable to Nova Scotia that's being touted as a green and reliable solution to the province's energy woes.

The Nova Scotia Utility and Review Board will consider whether the Emera Inc. project, called the Maritime Link, is the province's lowest-cost alternative for electricity over the next four decades.

Mirtchev said he's looking for a clear answer to that question as he cites rising rates over the past four years as a contributing factor in the recent closure of his Japanese restaurant in Halifax.

"If the result is stable rates but we don't know what they'll be, that's not good enough," he said of the 35-year deal that would see Nalcor Energy, Newfoundland and Labrador's Crown utility, provide power to Nova Scotia from Muskrat Falls.

The review board says overall residential rates in Nova Scotia have gone up 67 per cent since 2005, making them among the highest in the country. However, the province's NDP government has argued the $1.5-billion undersea link — which would provide a minimum of eight to 10 per cent of the province's electricity — would help end sharp price hikes for Nova Scotia Power's 490,000 customers.

Emera spokeswoman Sasha Irving said the link only creates a one-per-cent rate hike per year for five years beginning in 2017, and then rates would be steady or decline afterwards.

Irving said the link would put Nova Scotia in the middle of a transmission system that allows it to buy surplus energy at market prices from various vendors.

But consumer advocate John Merrick says ratepayers have justified fears.

"What I know and what I've seen is that I'm not satisfied this is the best deal for Nova Scotians," he said.

Premier Darrell Dexter says he remains a firm supporter of the proposal, adding it has won the crucial support of a federal loan guarantee.

"I believe that if, for some reason, this project does not go forward then in the years to come people ... will say 'Why is it the government of the day didn't have the vision to follow through on this kind of a project?'" he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

U.K. Tenth arrest made in fatal street slashing

British police arrested a 10th suspect Monday in connection with the vicious street killing of a soldier in London, apparently an Islamic extremist attack.

The 50-year-old man was detained in Welling, east of London, on suspicion of conspiring to murder Lee Rigby, Scotland Yard said. Police gave no further information.

The arrest came as more details trickled out about of one of the two main suspects, who were shot by police.

Officials say the pair had been known to them for some time, but revelations that one, Michael Adebolajo, had been arrested in Kenya in 2010 — and claims that security officials had tried to then recruit him as an informer — have fuelled questions about whether authorities could have done more to prevent last week's killing. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

B.C. Family terrorized slain woman, friends say

A B.C. woman whom Indian authorities believe was the victim of an honour killing planned in Canada 13 years ago spent the final months of her life in fear of her family, her friends testified Monday at the extradition hearing of her mother and uncle.

Jaswinder Sidhu was found dead in India at age 25.

Her mother and uncle are facing extradition to India to see conspiracy charges for allegedly unleashing the attack on the woman and her poor, lower-caste husband.

At one time, Sidhu arranged a code with coworker Jody Wright, one of her few confidants, that would initiate a call to police. Wright said she made that call twice.

"The code word was, 'I'm sick or I have the flu.' That was my trigger to call the cops because she was locked in her bedroom," Wright told the court.

Lack of hard evidence puts the hurt on G20 police brutality case

Pics or it didn't happen.

Victim struggles to prove that cop's riot shield caused broken shoulder

The first trial of a Toronto police officer facing criminal charges in the G20 protests is focusing on photos and video of one man's arrest, though none captured the moment he says he was hit with a riot shield.

Dorian Barton, whose shoulder was broken on June 26, 2010, had ventured down to the Ontario legislature to scope out the scene.

A line of police officers had formed to the south of him, and as he was facing east taking pictures he was hit from behind, Barton said.

A witness, Andrew Wallace, said he saw Barton, 32, getting "charged" by a police officer, who hit Barton with his shield, knocking him over, and then struck Barton with his baton.

"It was disgusting," he testified. "A police officer who, with no provocation ... charged an unarmed person."

Const. Glenn Weddell has pleaded not guilty to assault causing bodily harm and assault with a weapon. His lawyer said at the start of the trial that the only contact Weddell had with Barton was to help him up after he tripped.

Wallace was taking photographs of Barton's arrest and two videos of it also surfaced, yet none show Barton being knocked to the ground by a shield or being hit with a baton.

The clearest video starts with Barton already on the ground. One officer helps him up, and quickly he is surrounded by several other officers in riot gear. They usher him a few steps forward, then one of the officers appears to shove him. He trips over a curb and falls to the ground again.

The officer who pushed him quickly walks away and isn't seen on the video again.

The United States carried out a rigorous followup with Canadian military intelligence centres in the wake of a navy spy scandal to ensure that new, stricter security protocols had been enacted, say multiple defence and intelligence sources.

has acknowledged that fixes were underway as a result of the Jeffrey Delisle case, but the scope of U.S. direction startled Wesley Wark, a visiting professor at the University of Ottawa's graduate school of public and international affairs.

"As far as I'm aware, that is the first time in the history of Canada's allied relationships on the intelligence front that we've ever been faced with that kind of stringent requirement and deadline to fix things," Wark said in an interview.

"Perhaps the Americans didn't quite trust the Canadians to come up with a sufficient security fix, sufficiently quickly."

The increased oversight comes as a result of lapses that allowed former sub-lieutenant Jeffrey Delisle, 42, to use a floppy disk and thumb drive to copy and smuggle top secret information out of a Halifax intelligence centre.

Rob Ford lost two more senior members of his staff Monday, leaving the already beleaguered mayor with an increasingly depleted office as he attempts to quell a still raging crack cocaine scandal.

Facing reporters, Ford would only say George Christopoulos and Isaac Ransom had "decided to go down a different avenue."

He refused to talk about the circumstances, saying he never discusses "personnel issues."

Neither man offered any immediate explanation for their decision to leave, but within minutes, their email and cellphone accounts had been disabled.

Last week, it was announced that Ford's chief of staff Mark Towhey was no longer on staff — reportedly after advising the mayor to get help. Towhey said only that he did not resign.

In a tweet following word of the latest resignations Monday, Towhey called Christopoulos and Ransom "outstanding, honest and honourable professionals."

Before announcing the departures, Ford said Monday he wanted to "sincerely apologize" to reporters for derogatory remarks about the media. Over the weekend, Ford used his radio show to attack the media as a "bunch of maggots."

"It has been bothering me, a lot," he said of his comments.

Tories play offence. Avoiding taxation has equal representation

Opposition politicians have been hammering away at the Senate expenses scandal during question period, but the government is getting in some jabs of its own.

With Prime Minister Stephen Harper skipping the Monday session, as is his practice, it fell to Heritage Minister James Moore to deflect a barrage of Senate questions.

But recent missteps for both NDP Leader Tom Mulcair and Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau made it easy for Conservatives to blunt their attacks.

Mulcair wanted to know when Harper would provide answers about the $90,000 cheque written by the prime minister's former chief of staff to cover Sen. Mike Duffy's questionable expense claims.

"When will the prime minister take responsibility, show accountability and finally start answering questions?" Mulcair thundered.

Moore countered by bringing up NDP MP Tyrone Ben-skin, who Mulcair fired from his critic's job last week after he admitted he owed almost $60,000 in back taxes.

How many more of Mulcair's MPs are behind in their taxes? Moore wondered aloud.

Trudeau got up to promote Liberal efforts to move a motion before the Senate ethics committee to study the Senate scandal and call both Harper and Nigel Wright, his former chief of staff, to testify.

Instead, he got a pointed reminder of his comments about Senate reform, published in Montreal's Le Soleil, that landed him in hot water. Trudeau was expressing his opposition to abolishing the Senate when he pointed out that it gives Quebec an advantage — more seats than Alberta and British Columbia.

"It is kind of interesting to see him stand in the House and pretend as though he actually cares about Senate reform because he does not," Moore said.

New Yorkers learn to share

Tourists pose for photographs by a bicycle docking station near the Empire State building on Monday in New York City. The privately funded Citi Bike bike-share program launched Monday with 6,000 bikes at 330 docking stations in Manhattan and parts of Brooklyn. Officials hope to expand to 10,000 bikes. More than 9,000 people have signed up, and an annual membership costs $95 US. Mayor Michael Bloomberg calls the long-awaited program a "big win" for New York City residents and tourists.

Prospect of U.S. border fees divides states north-south

Proposed study.

Opposition to levies is strong in communities close to 49th parallel, but folks near Mexican border feel differently

By Michael Hill's estimation, 90 per cent of the people pumping gas at his station just south of the U.S.-Canada border in Washington state are Canadians.

Gas north of the 49th parallel, he said, is about $1.30 per gallon more expensive than in the United States. But that's not the only product that Canadians seek in visits to Washington state: Beer, wine and milk are significantly cheaper (beer and wine alone are roughly half the price in the U.S.).

Add a strong Canadian dollar and the result is a key element of the economy in the towns of Whatcom County. For example, the town of Blaine, population just shy of 5,000, generates over $225,000 from a penny per gallon gas tax, which is about 30 per cent of its street maintenance budget.

That's why Hill and others are troubled by the notion of charging a fee to enter the U.S. by land. Last month, in its 2014 fiscal year budget proposal, the Department of Homeland Security requested permission to study a fee at the nation's land border crossings.

"It's a deterrent," said Hill, whose station is fully stocked with wine and has a reader board that says "Thank you Canadians."

"They should be doing anything they can to get them down here to buy more," he added.

That lone request sparked wide opposition among members of Congress from northern states, who vowed to stop it. A fee, they say, would hurt communities on the border that rely on people, goods and money moving between the U.S. and Canada.

Lawmakers and people from the southern border, though, did not show such strong opposition, highlighting a north-south divide on how to pay for border infrastructure.

Democrat Congressman Ruben E. Hinojosa, who represents a district in Texas that includes McAllen and its nearby border region, said fees would be good if the revenue stream is used to improve infrastructure.

It now costs nothing to enter the U.S. by land. Air and sea crossings already have a fee of under $2 US, which are included in ticket prices.

Air travel. Both sides confident of victory in T.O. waterfront jets fight

Both sides in the battle over whether to allow jets to fly out of Toronto's waterfront airport say they are confident that they will ultimately prevail.

Porter Airlines CEO Robert Deluce believes municipal politicians will give their nod because Porter's plan addresses the technical issues that concern most people.

"I think that we have an excellent chance of getting the required approvals that would allow these whisper jets to start operating by as early as January 2016," he said. Deluce was in Montreal on Monday to receive an honorary doctorate of science degree from McGill.

Toronto Coun. Adam Vaughan said he's equally sure that his colleagues will reject the effort when it comes back for a final vote. He said it would be very difficult to restrict the airport to just one type of jet.

FORGETTING FACES IS THE PITT'S

If you're ever lucky enough to meet Brad Pitt face-to-face, you should know that he'll probably forget you right away. And it's not just because he's Brad Pitt the movie star who meets hundreds of new people on a weekly basis, it's because he might be 'face blind.'

In a recent interview with Esquire magazine, Pitt revealed that he believes he has prosopagnosia, a medical condition which makes it almost impossible for him to remember the faces of the people he meets. And while it might sound like a convenient excuse for an egocentric movie star's forgetfulness, this facial recognition disorder is actually surprisingly common — affecting about one in 50 people with varying degrees of severity.

But what about the rest of us?

A little memory lapse is forgivable every once in awhile, but I think there's something inherently arrogant about individuals who make little effort to remember other people. For most of us, recognizing familiar faces isn't the main issue — it's trying to remember names.

SHE SAYS

We've all found ourselves in that awkward situation: You see an acquaintance at a party and attempt to gauge whether or not they remember you while racking your brain to recall their first name. Eventually you're introduced to one another by a mutual friend and both awkwardly pretend that you're meeting for the first time. It seems to be an unspoken social rule that it's better to play dumb than actually admit you don't know each other's names.

From professional networking events to impromptu run-ins with high school classmates, forgetting someone's name can be an embarrassing blunder for everyone involved. It's hard to say whether it feels worse to be the nameless individual who can't seem to make a lasting impression or the jerk who can't be bothered to remember other people's names.

Whenever I hear someone quip, "Sorry, I'm so bad with names," I can't help but think that what they're truly saying is, "I won't be making an effort to think about you after this conversation." Sure you might make excuses about being hopelessly forgetful, but an inability to recall names does reflect your interest level in others — at least to some degree. If you aren't particularly concerned with developing interpersonal relationships, you'll be less likely to remember if your neighbour's name is Laura or Lauren.

People who are "good with names" aren't just well-mannered; they're attentive listeners with a higher level of investment in their social circles. And it's not just about winning friends; some of the most successful businesspeople are the ones that have a knack for names and memorizing details about their clients and customers.

There's no doubt first impressions are important and although it might seem like a small detail, remembering a name is one of those vital social graces that can make or break a relationship with a new(ish) acquaintance.

Unless you're Brad Pitt of course; I'd be happy to forgive him for forgetting me.

So, you think you know Soderbergh?

Career in review.

There are whispers the filmmaker has had his final hurrah — so what better time to look back on his Hollywood legacy?

MATTHEW PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York

Behind the Candelabra, starring Michael Douglas as Liberace and Matt Damon as his younger lover, premiered Sunday on HBO Canada. Most of the coverage, inevitably, has revolved around two major male stars playing gay together, as well as Douglas' spot-on impersonation as the flamboyant (and closeted) pianist.

Somewhat under reported is that this is the alleged final film of Steven Soderbergh, the storied and award-winning director who, among many other things, helped breathe life into both independent and mainstream American cinema.

Soderbergh had threatened to retire a few years ago, citing exhaustion with the movie business, and even with moviemaking itself. His plan is to concentrate on painting and maybe do some TV. It's very possible (or we're simply hoping) this is a Jay-Z-style "retirement" — a sabbatical/mental health break that will set up a triumphant return to the medium he conquered. But for now, Candelabra is his swan song. (Although if you really want to be a stickler, Side Effects, his last film released theatrically, is his farewell to cinema. But Candelabra is currently in competition at the Cannes Film Festival.)

In honour of this perhaps non-ending to what we feel has been a fantastic and thrilling career, filled with excellent and experimental work that flexed the muscles of what mainstream (and underground) film can do, we've decided to round up a handful of amusing tidbits about the director that might have flown over many people's heads.

His first film was a Yes concert documentary

Soderbergh was only 26 when his debut fiction feature, Sex,

Soderbergh has had highs and lows in his career. GETTY IMAGES

Bizarre Twitter account

As alluded to here, Soderbergh has a strange, wonderfully bizarre sense of humour, which manifests itself even in his dramas, and in "impersonal" Hollywood fare. ("Ocean's Twelve" is one of the silliest sequels ever made.) Soon after his retirement from film, he announced he had a "stealth" Twitter account, which was outed as "@Bitchuation." Every week or so, without announcement, he goes on a tweet

Lies and Videotape, won the Palme d'Or at Cannes. Young as that seems — and he was the youngest director to have a film win the festival's top prize — it wasn't his first. That would be Yes 9012Live, released in 1985, and featuring lots of then-cutting-edge video editing effects as the prog rock legends played one of their most popular albums. (It's the one with Owner of a Lonely Heart.) Released on video, it was even nominated for a Grammy. It still bender, spouting inscrutable — and often weirdly sage — pronouncements in 140 characters or less. Right now he's in the middle of writing a Twitter novel, which appears to be a globe-trotting spy story comprised mostly of gnomic utterances and dry silliness. The account doesn't have his name on it, but it did have an official blue "confirmed" check next to it — which has since mysteriously disappeared.

took him another four years to get a real feature off the ground — but it's OK because he was still only in his mid-20s.

His ex-wife was the body double for Jessica Rabbit

Till 1994, Soderbergh was married to Betsy Brantley, an actress who has two minor credits in major motion pictures:

she was the body double for Roger Rabbit's curvy wife, and she was Fred Savage's mother in The Princess Bride. Brantley also played his wife in the no-budget 1996 comedy Schizopolis, two years after they were divorced. Which brings us to...

During a rebellious period, Soderbergh made a super-bizarre no-budget comedy

This isn't the first time Soderbergh has dropped out of Hollywood. After his Palme d'Or smash, Soderbergh made three projects that failed to catch much attention: Kafka, King of the Hill (not the TV show) and The Underneath. These are, respectively, flawed but interesting, a neglected masterpiece and underrated. He became the poster child for squandered potential. So he quit. To refuel his creative juices, he spent three years tackling low budget productions, such as the Spalding Gray monologue film Gray's Anatomy, and doing for-hire writing jobs, including Nightwatch, Mimic and the failed Henry Selick film Toots and the Upside Down House. The most insane of these is Schizopolis, a tiny, excessively idiosyncratic experimental comedy in which he essentially dumps all of the insane comic, alienating ideas he's never used into one film. It's much tighter than that sounds, although sometimes bewildering and even inscrutable. It's also hilarious and incisive into his frail mental state at the time, not only because it featured him acting (hilariously, it should be added — he needs to act a lot more) alongside his recent ex as marrieds. (Her character winds up cheating on him with another character, also played by him.) He published a hilarious self-deprecating book about said period.

Beautiful Creatures

Director: Richard LaGravenese

Stars: Alden Ehrenreich, Alice Englert, Viola Davis

A momentous life change awaits Lena Duchannes (Alice Englert) upon her 16th birthday: She'll officially become a witch or simply remain a bitch. The terminology in Beautiful Creatures, a movie of heaving bosoms, hearty winks and atrocious southern accents, is that Lena will be "claimed" by family voodoo and involuntarily turned Dark (extremely witchy) or Light (merely bitchy). You might well argue there's not much difference between the two, and that's certainly the view of Lena's erstwhile boyfriend Ethan Wate (Alden Ehrenreich), who is tired of being treated as a doormat by fretful Lena and her freaky kinfolk. But Ethan appreciates absurdity, maybe because he looks like a younger version of Johnny Knoxville from Jackass. So does the movie, written and directed by Richard LaGravenese (P.S. I Love You), which makes this inevitable attempt to fill the post-Twilight void of supernatural teen romance easy to take. It's based on the first book of the four-volume (and counting) Caster Chronicles by Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl. Trouble is a-brewin', but Beautiful Creatures is in no rush to get there or to make the story excessively grave. This may disappoint moviegoers who prefer to see bloody bite marks and exploding heads. Extras include deleted scenes and making-of featurettes.

Controversial director Polanski takes a pop at the Pill

Roman Polanski isn't necessarily a fan of birth control, complaining during a press conference in Cannes for his new film, Venus in Furs, that the Pill has had a "masculinizing" effect on women. The 79-year-old director says the Pill has "changed the place of women in our times." He also gripes that moves toward gender equality are having a negative impact on chivalry, noting that "offering flowers to a lady" has now become "indecent." Polanski's wife, Emmanuelle Seigner, stars in Venus in Furs as a strong actress dominating her director during the production of a play.

Summer health.

Check your body — and your SPF — to stay safe this summer when you're having fun in the sun

Even though skin cancer can be as deadly as breast or any other cancer, people still take chances with sun and tanning bed exposure. Every year, there are more new cases of skin cancer than breast, prostate, lung and colon cancer combined, according to The Skin Cancer Foundation.

We had Dr. Sarah Gora, medical and scientific relations leader at Vichy Laboratories, and Dr. Ellen Marmur, a board-certified dermatologist and member of the American Academy of Dermatology, give us the lowdown on staying healthy.

Are people wearing enough sunscreen?

"No, most people don't, and most people apply sunscreen too thinly. At Vichy we recommend using half a teaspoon for the face and at least 30 ml (the equivalent of a golf ball) for an adult body," says Gora. A good general rule, she adds, is to reapply every two hours of sun time. If you're swimming and perspiring apply more often. "(People) forget about their ears, their neck, the back of their hands, parts of their

What SPF should we all be wearing?

"The choice of the SPF index (UVB only) depends on your skin's phototype and the sun exposure length and intensity. If your phototype index is low (fair skin), it requires a higher SPF index," says Gora. "Intense exposure to sun, such as a day on the beach, also requires a higher SPF index and a protection against UVA. For a weak sun exposition and for the average person, we recommend a minimum SPF index of 30."

Seriously, stop tanning

"Tanning beds are known to increase the risk of skin cancers by 75 per cent," Marmur says. "No one should use them."

Can you please explain the difference between UVA and UVB?

"From sun radiation, we receive ultraviolet (UV) rays A and B (UVC are globally stopped by the ozone layer). UVB (five per cent of UV rays) are well-known to be responsible for tan and sunburn, but they are also involved in skin cancer development," says Gora. "UVB rays do not cross through glass and are partially absorbed by cloud. Therefore they are mainly present during the summer and between 10 and 2 p.m. UVA (short and long) represent 95 per cent of the UV radiation received. They are not blocked by glass and they are responsible for immediate pigmentation, skin aging, sun intolerance and skin cancer. Long UVA, the most prominent UV rays (75 per cent of UV rays) penetrate deeply into the skin and are responsible for many damages in the skin with a build-up and long term effects."

Landon Donovan on why sunscreen matters

Landon Donovan has won titles on the pitch, but now he's trying to help out off it.

"I've spent most of my life playing soccer outdoors, but I wasn't always diligent in applying sunscreen. That all changed when my father discovered a bump on his eyelid that turned out to be skin cancer. My father was lucky to have caught it early. He's now cancer-free. Many men overlook the importance of sun protection. In 2012, The Skin Cancer Foundation found that nearly half of men don't wear sunscreen. So, I've partnered with The Skin Cancer Foundation and the makers of Banana Boat and Hawaiian Tropic sunscreens to educate men on the risk and how they can protect themselves. Visit sunblunders.com to learn more."

Vinegar isn't just for windows

Thank goodness the balsamic vinegar bullying is over.

The range of vinegars goes well beyond the bold or the pale white. The nuance of tastes and uses of vinegar is coming into its own.

Aging in oak barrels and imported starters called "vinegar mother" are creating exquisite products.

Gingras Vinegars, for instance, say "the noble vinegar mother from France converts alcohol to acetic acid in apple cider. The oak cask imparts flavour and colour." Sounds a lot like fine wine and not something you sprinkle on fries.

- Snazzy cocktail makers are using a splash in drinks

- Salads benefit from a finer, less sharp, richer vinegar

- Many swear by a teaspoonful of apple cider vinegar for indigestion

- A splash of vinegar in a broth helps remove more calcium from bones to the liquid

- Boil down a cheaper vinegar to intensify its flavour and use as a drizzle

Shellfish Kabobs are easy as presto, or in this case, pesto

This recipe serves four and contains 229 calories and 11 grams of fat per serving. BRIAN MACDONALD, ROSE REISMAN'S COMPLETE LIGHT KITCHEN (WHITECAP BOOKS)

ROSE REISMAN
for more, visit rosereisman.com or follow
her on twitter @rosereisman

These shellfish kabobs make a great appetizer or an entree when served over rice or couscous. If shellfish isn't what you like, fish such as salmon and halibut are equally delicious. Feel free to use any combination of vegetables (as in the photo).

If you're using wooden skewers, soak them for at least 20 minutes in water before barbecuing.

1. Thread the scallops, shrimp and tomatoes evenly onto 4 large or 8 small skewers.

2. To make the pesto, purée the basil, Parmesan, pine nuts, cream cheese, garlic, stock and oil in the bowl of a small food processor until smooth. Brush half the pesto

Ingredients

- 8 oz medium scallops
- 8 oz peeled and deveined large shrimp
- 16 cherry tomatoes (or a combination of bell pepper and red onion)
- 1 cup packed fresh basil leaves
- 2 tbsp grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tbsp toasted pine nuts
- 2 tbsp light cream cheese
- 1 tsp minced fresh garlic
- 3 tbsp low-sodium chicken stock or water
- 2 tbsp olive oil

over the kabobs.

3. Preheat a grill to high, or spray a non-stick skillet with cooking oil and place over high heat. Grill or sauté the kabobs on both sides just until cooked, about 5 minutes. Serve with the remaining pesto. ROSE REISMAN'S COMPLETE LIGHT KITCHEN (WHITECAP BOOKS) BY ROSE REISMAN

Barbecue with gusto: Beef Tenderloin with Red Peppers

1. Combine salt, black, white and Szechuan peppercorns, onion flakes, garlic, mustard seeds, coriander seeds, ancho

Ingredients

Steak Spice

- 75 ml (1/3 cup) coarse sea salt
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each whole black peppercorns, whole white peppercorns, Szechuan peppercorns, dried onion flakes
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) granulated garlic
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) each mustard seeds, coriander seeds
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) each flaked ancho pepper, dill seeds

- 6 beef tenderloin filets (about 170 g to 225 g/6 to 8 oz each), cut 4 cm (1 1/2 inches) thick
- 2 red bell peppers
- 1 medium red onion, sliced into rings
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) balsamic glaze
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) chopped fresh oregano
- 1/2 juicy lemon
- Salt and black pepper, to taste
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) soft goat's cheese

pepper and dill seeds. Fill a pepper grinder with as much of the mixture as it can hold. Store remaining Steak Spice in an airtight container in a cool, dry place away from heat and light

2. Season filets with Steak Spice, pressing seasoning into meat. Set aside.

3. Roast peppers on the grill, turning periodically, until peppers are charred and blistering. Place peppers in a bowl and cover with plastic wrap. The heat from the peppers will produce steam that makes the skin easier to peel. After 10 minutes, peel and seed peppers and cut into 1-cm (1/2-inch) wide strips, place in a bowl and let cool.

4. At the same time as you are grilling the peppers, grill onion. Remove from grill, cut onion rings in half and add to red peppers. Season with a drizzle of olive oil, balsamic glaze and fresh oregano. Season with a squeeze of fresh lemon juice and salt and black pepper. Mix well and set aside.

5. Crumble goat's cheese and refrigerate until needed.

6. Fire up your grill to 290 to 345 C (550 to 650 F). Add cheese to roasted red pepper mixture. Season to taste with a little more salt and pepper. Gently mix.

7. Grill filets for 3 to 4 minutes on one side. Turn steaks and top each with a handful of roasted red pepper and goat's cheese mixture. Close lid and cook for 3 to 4 more minutes for medium-rare doneness. Remove from grill and serve immediately.

These moms curse a lot, drink to excess, reveal scary truths and draw twisted little stick figures of their kids pooping and whining relentlessly. And they're bringing their derelict parenting to you. The authors behind a fresh round of parenting books love their munchkins, to be sure, but there's something about the scorched earth narrative that sells memoirish parenting books these days. Is the goal an instructional one? Inspirational? How about some advice?

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four ways to get fresh parenting advice

Scary mommy

Jill Smokler's Scary Mommy certainly can't do it all. Motherhood Comes Naturally (And Other Vicious Lies) is her second spin off of her popular blog and parenting community at Scarymommy.com. The first was Confessions of a Scary Mommy. The 35-year-old mom of three, including boys just 20 months apart, has noticed a difference in exactly how much filth and frustration parents are willing to reveal in the five long years since she first put up her blog.

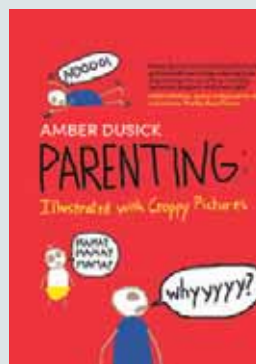

"There wasn't this acceptance about being this sort of less-than-perfect mother, but all of a sudden it feels like that is becoming the norm rather than the exception," said Smokler, in Baltimore, Md. "There came a tipping point where everybody just couldn't keep up that facade anymore and there was just a backlash, and here we are."

No advice

"No, there isn't any. I don't have anything. No advice. Nobody has any advice," laughed Amber Dusick, a Los Angeles mother of two who brings us Parenting: Illustrated with Crappy Pictures. The book's 50 "crappy laws of parenting" include this at No. 16: "When you sneak to the pantry to eat chocolate, you will get caught."

Dusick, whose boys are six and three, began blogging nearly two years ago. Her childlike drawings lend a creepy air to life with the Crappy family, including that fateful day when they all get sick. Tempers and temperatures flare, and bodily fluids fly all night, brought alive by her hollow-eyed illustrations.

The expletive-infused parent

Ian Frazier's popular cursing mommy character from his columns in The New Yorker now has her own novel called The Cursing Mommy's Book of Days, a diary of dereliction spread over a year of boozing, bad parenting and expletive-infused mockery of a capacitor-hoarding husband named Larry.

There's this entry for Wednesday, April 13: "Yes, lying in a steaming tub with a bottle of Kahlua and ignoring the children's knocks on the bathroom door all afternoon is not the most mature coping strategy. So stipulated, your honour!"

Can you do it all?

"We've opened up the dialogue," offered Nicole Knepper, who has two kids and wrote Moms Who Drink and Swear, complete with a chapter titled, Suck it, Santa Claus.

"People have really found ways to be more authentic about who they are and how it affects us as parents. My mom's generation, they did a lot of pushing down their own interests and their own personalities because they were all about the kids, and this was their job and their focus, whereas my generation (She's 43 and lives in Plainfield, Ill.), the expectations are different. You multi-task. You do it all, only nobody can do it all well."

Are you going to get into your dream home?

Money. Prospective homeowners faced with challenges previous generations didn't have — but it's not all bad news

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

There are a few million millennials dying to have a home of their own.

However, despite record low interest rates, they're confronted with huge challenges not faced by previous generations.

Aside from anything else, research is clear that young buyers are earning relatively less than their parents did with reduced job security and fewer benefits regardless of education.

The good news is the real estate market is softening. Sales volumes are declining and unsold inventories are building, historically both are precursors of lower prices.

For example, the Halton Region is a desirable community served by rapid transit just outside Toronto. According to real estate and mortgage agent Domenic Manchisi, residential inventory stood at 1.9 months a year ago. It's now 2.6 months, meaning if no other properties came on the market it would take that long to sell everything.

"When inventories reach about four and a half months we're slipping into a buyer's market," he says.

It's still a far cry from 2009 when there was 7.5 to eight months of inventory in Halton. However, there are clear signs across the country that the trend is similarly tilting in favour of house hunters.

The toughest part of buying for newbies is the down payment. Manchisi advises buyers to focus on carrying costs, which are relatively lower than they were for their parents.

TD senior economist Sonya Gulati points out that 1988 average house prices were just under $130,000 in Canada. Today they are just more than $361,000.

Assuming a typical 10 per cent down payment, millennials had monthly mortgage costs of $1,310 with an interest rate of 12 per cent. Today, at a three per cent fixed rate and with a 20 per cent down payment (required to avoid mandatory mortgage insurance) the monthly outlay would be $1,391. (Bear in mind today's dollar has considerably less buying power

In numbers

5.4%

Canadian residential home prices grew by an average of 5.4% annually from 1980 to 2012.

than it did in 1988.)

"Young buyers should look at a five-year closed rate at around 2.9 per cent, but I'd be accelerating my payments as if it was four per cent," Manchisi advises.

Manchisi refinanced his rental properties when rates plunged but kept the payments at 5 per cent.

"I shaved six or seven years off the life of the mortgages and will end up saving $90,000."

Charlottetown Islanders reborn as P.E.I. Rocket diffused

Say hello to the snazzy new Charlottetown Islanders. The new colours, name and logo of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League team — formerly the P.E.I. Rocket — were unveiled Monday in Charlottetown.

The colours are roughly similar to the gold, black and white of NFL's New Orleans Saints and the logo features the Confederation Bridge. The Islanders name reaches into the 1960s and 70s when the Junior Islanders were barn-burning their way through major junior hockey.

And Geoff Boyle, one of the new owners representing the ownership group, was more than pleased with the team's steps toward the 2013-14 season and its nod to former days.

"I've been a hockey fan in Charlottetown (for years and have) proud and fond memories of Island teams of the past," Boyle said. "I can't wait for the opportunity for this team and our group to put our stamp on Island hockey history."

New members to the ownership group were also unveiled. It brings the group to 16 members. A management structure is still being worked out.

The group, which purchased the team from Serge Savard and Serge Savard Jr., takes ownership June 1.

The season-ticket campaign also began and highlights include no price increase from last season (early bird $440, regular price after July 15 is $475), a $99 youth season-ticket price and a flex package that allows purchasers to build a customized package of games.

Moose brass reflect on historic season

We are the champions.

After months of keeping emotions in check it's party time for Halifax

ANDREW RANKIN
Metro in Saskatoon

Dominique Ducharme resisted the urge to gush about his biggest stars immediately after the Halifax Mooseheads' historic Memorial Cup title on Sunday night.

The Herd's head coach chose to look at the broader picture, focusing on a few of the more unheralded players who helped anchor his team to greatness.

"It was a great group effort, everybody brought what they could give to the team," said Ducharme at ice level. "Early in the tournament, people asked me about our D-core. I said probably they were underrated. Tonight they showed they are a pretty solid group."

Of course, he had plenty of praise for his terrific netminder Zach Fucale and the top line of Nathan MacKinnon, Jonathan Drouin and Martin Frk who were simply brilliant on Sunday's 6-4 win over the Portland Winterhawks, combining for 13 points.

"They like to be playing in big moments, they like playing in big games. They want to be difference makers and tonight they were," Ducharme said.

Clearly, the Mooseheads were dominant — losing just two games through four playoff rounds and at the Memorial Cup.

But in his elation, Ducharme remembered the grind, stemming from the overtime games, the constant travel, the planning and preparation.

"We played a lot of solid high-level teams along the way," said Ducharme. "We played a great team tonight and London's the same and Saskatoon."

"We're the first Memorial Cup team from the QMJHL to win out West; it means a lot."

"It speaks a lot about the character of that team and their will to win."

Celebrating on the fringes of the Credit Union Centre's ice surface was one of the masterminds of this remarkable team, general manager Cam Russell.

As proud as he was for his players and coaching staff, he was also thinking of the fans back home.

"They stuck with us for the last four years, those years were really difficult," said Russell. "So to reward them with a Memorial Cup feels pretty special."

#congrats. Herd alumni applaud winning effort

Bickell's goal helps Hawks out of pickle

NHL playoffs. Chicago scores 3 in 1st half of 3rd period to come back and force Game 7 against Detroit

Bryan Bickell scored a go-ahead goal early in the third period and the Chicago Blackhawks held on to beat the Detroit Red Wings 4-3 in Game 6 on Monday night, giving the NHL's top-seeded team a shot to advance to the Western Conference final.

The Blackhawks, who trailed the second-round series 3-1, began the third down by one and were up by two goals midway through the period after an offensive flurry. They needed the cushion because Damien Brunner scored with 52 seconds left to pull Detroit within one.

The Red Wings pulled their goaltender, but they were unable to score with the extra skater.

Detroit carried a 2-1 lead into the third but Michal Handzus tied it in the opening minute of the final period. Bickell scored about five minutes later. Michael Fro-lik's backhand on a penalty shot at the 9:43 mark put the Blackhawks ahead 4-2 and silenced the once-raucous crowd.

The Blackhawks will have the fans on their side Wednesday night in Game 7 against seventh-seeded Detroit.

Frolik became first player in league history to score two goals on penalty shots in the playoffs, according to STATS LLC.

Frolik got a penalty try when he had a breakaway after blocking Carlo Colaiacovo's shot and was hacked by him from behind. He took advantage by scoring easily on Howard's glove side.

Detroit goalie Jimmy Howard was irate, screaming at an official while the Blackhawks celebrated their comeback.

Chicago's Corey Crawford made 35 saves and Howard stopped 24 shots for the Red Wings. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shades of '92. Blue Jays bash their way past Braves

Edwin Encarnacion hit a three-run homer while Colby Rasmus and J.P. Arencibia each hit two-run shots as the Toronto Blue Jays opened a home-and-home series with Atlanta by defeating the Braves 9-3 on Monday.

Mark Buehrle (2-3) was solid through six innings for the Blue Jays (22-29), with one earned run allowed on five hits, two walks and six strikeouts.

Tim Hudson (4-4) also went six for the Braves but his pitching line wasn't so flattering. The right-hander gave up six runs on eight hits with just one strikeout.

He was replaced in the seventh by reliever Cory Rasmus, Colby's brother, who made his second major-league appearance and lost points in the sibling rivalry.

Cory Rasmus gave up a ground-rule double to Melky Cabrera, walked Jose Bautista and watched Encarnacion send the first pitch over the fence for his 14th homer of the year for a 9-1 lead.

Colby Rasmus also got some family bragging rights after the Blue Jays centre-fielder doubled off his brother later in the inning.

Push work worries to the back of your mind and focus on friendships. You cannot escape your obligations but neither do you have to let them rule your life. Think happy thoughts and happy things will occur.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Whatever it is you have to work on today, you will be at your most efficient. Not everyone is as organized and focused as you though so try to be patient with those who find it hard to keep up.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Someone you work with will get on your nerves today but be tolerant because they possess something you need. It's unlikely they will choose to give it to you if you hurt their feelings.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Don't worry too much about the injustices of the world because you cannot possibly resolve them all. What you can do though is be kind to people you meet one-to-one. Even a smile makes the world better.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Don't listen to that nagging voice at the back of your mind that is trying to convince you that having fun is a sin. Life is about loving and laughing and learning. Have more fun.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Do something that shakes up those people who seem to have slipped into an easygoing mode of thought and action. There is a world out there waiting to be conquered.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Your conscience demands that you follow a certain course of action and you know from long experience that if you don't obey, you will regret it later. Do what has to be done and make sure you do it well.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may want to gossip today but keep what you know to yourself. If you get a reputation as a bit of a blabbermouth, no one will tell you anything.
